Class 6 Social Science – Chapter 9: Family and Community

यहाँ आपकी अपलोड की गई CBSE पुस्तक के Chapter 9 के प्रश्नों के उत्तर simple English में दिए गए हैं। इसमें पाठ के सभी मुख्य विषय, Let's Explore, Think About It, अंतिम अभ्यास-प्रश्न और परीक्षा के लिए अतिरिक्त महत्वपूर्ण प्रश्न-उत्तर शामिल हैं।

Part 1: Answers to the Big Questions

Q1. Why is the family unit important?

Answer: The family is important because it is the basic unit of society. Family members love, care for and support one another. Children learn values, duties, cooperation and traditions from their families.

Q2. What is a community and what is its role?

Answer: A community is a group of connected people who live, work or share common interests. Members of a community help one another, celebrate festivals, solve common problems and manage shared resources. Communities make society stronger.

Part 2: Answers to "Let's Explore" and "Think About It"

A. Types of Families (Page 138)

Q1. What types of families do you see in your neighbourhood?

Answer: I see both joint families and nuclear families in my neighbourhood.

Q2. Which type of family is more frequent? Why?

Answer: The answer may differ from one neighbourhood to another. In some places, nuclear families are more common because people move to towns for jobs, education or work. In other places, joint families are common because relatives prefer to live together and support one another.

B. Family Relationships (Pages 138–139)

Q3. Why do Indian languages have many words for family relationships?

Answer: Indian languages often use different words for different relatives. These words help us identify relationships clearly and show the importance of family bonds.

Q4. What do we learn by comparing family terms in our mother tongue and English?

Answer: We learn that one word in an Indian language may need several words in English to explain its exact meaning. This shows that languages describe family relationships in different ways.

C. Roles and Responsibilities (Pages 139–140)

Q5. Who decides what is bought from the market in your family?

Answer: In my family, the family members discuss what is needed and decide what to buy.

Q6. Who cooks food, cleans the house and washes utensils in your home?

Answer: Family members share these household tasks according to their time, ability and needs.

Q7. Who helps you with your homework?

Answer: My parents, teachers or other family members may help me with my homework.

Note: These are sample answers. Students should change them according to their own families.

D. The Story of Shalini (Pages 140–141)

Q8. Why did Shalini's parents buy clothes for everyone?

Answer: Shalini's uncle had lost his job, and his family could not afford new clothes for Onam. Shalini's parents bought clothes for her uncle, aunt and cousin because they wanted to support them and share what they had.

Q9. What values does Shalini's family show?

Answer: The family shows love, care, cooperation, kindness, sharing and sacrifice.

Q10. What would you have done if you were in Shalini's place?

Answer: I would have felt happy that my relatives received new clothes. I would have understood that helping family members in difficult times is more important than getting an expensive dress.

Q11. Draw a simple family tree of Shalini's family.

Answer: The story names Shalini, her younger brother, her parents, her grandmother Acchamma, her paternal uncle Chittappa, her aunt Chitti and their daughter Chinni. A simple family tree can be drawn as follows:

Grandmother Acchamma

Her sons and their families

Shalini’s father

Shalini’s mother

Shalini

Younger brother

Chittappa

Chitti

Chinni

Cousin

E. The Story of Tenzing (Page 142)

Q12. Why does Tenzing’s father consult his wife about special expenses?

Answer: He consults his wife because they share family responsibilities. They discuss important expenses together and plan how to save money for unexpected needs.

Q13. How do you feel about Tenzing’s father helping with household chores?

Answer: It is a good practice. Household work should be shared by family members. It promotes equality, cooperation and mutual respect.

Q14. What roles do Tenzing’s grandparents fulfil?

Answer: Tenzing’s grandmother cooks food and tells stories full of wisdom. His grandfather helps him with homework, takes him to the school bus stop and helps people in the neighbourhood.

Q15. What does Tenzing’s story teach us?

Answer: It teaches us that family members should share household work, discuss important decisions, save money and help their neighbours.

F. Joint and Nuclear Families (Page 143)

Q16. Why do some couples choose to live in nuclear families?

Answer: Some couples choose nuclear families because of jobs, education, transfers, limited living space or a desire for greater independence.

Q17. What are the advantages of a joint family?

Answer: A joint family provides emotional support, shared household work, care for children and older people, and the sharing of resources and traditions.

Q18. What are the disadvantages of a joint family?

Answer: There may be less privacy, differences of opinion and disagreements about responsibilities or decisions.

Q19. What are the advantages of a nuclear family?

Answer: A nuclear family may provide more privacy, independence and flexibility in making daily decisions.

Q20. What are the disadvantages of a nuclear family?

Answer: There may be fewer people available to share household work or care for children and older people. Family members may need extra help during emergencies.

G. Community and Cooperation (Pages 143–144)

Q21. How do communities help people in villages?

Answer: People in villages may help one another in preparing land, sowing seeds and harvesting crops. They may also agree on ways to share water, grazing lands and forest resources.

Q22. What is the Halma tradition?

Answer: Halma is a tradition of the Bhil community in which people come together to help individuals or families in times of need. The textbook describes how the Bhils planted trees and built rainwater conservation structures to address water shortages near Jhabua, Madhya Pradesh.

Q23. How did people help during the Chennai floods of 2015?

Answer: Many groups, including spiritual and religious organisations, cooked and distributed food to people who needed help when roads and services were disrupted by the floods.

H. Kamal Parmar’s Initiative (Page 146)

Q24. What attitude towards the community does Kamal Parmar’s story show?

Answer: It shows kindness, social responsibility and a willingness to help people in need. Kamal used his free time to teach children who had limited access to education.

Q25. What values are reflected in Kamal Parmar's initiative?

Answer: His initiative reflects compassion, generosity, service, cooperation and commitment to education.

Q26. Do you think society has been unfair to underprivileged children?

Answer: Yes, when children cannot attend school because of poverty or lack of facilities, they do not get equal opportunities. Every child deserves education, care and respect.

Q27. What should society do to make sure all children get access to education?

Answer: Society should support affordable and accessible schools, provide books and other learning materials to children in need, prevent discrimination and encourage children who have dropped out to return to school.

I. Other Communities (Pages 147–148)

Q28. What is a Residents' Welfare Association (RWA)?

Answer: A Residents' Welfare Association is a group of people living in a residential area who work together to manage common concerns, such as cleanliness, waste management and shared spaces.

Q29. Why are communities interdependent?

Answer: Communities depend on one another for goods, services and support. For example, a residential association depends on traders for supplies and municipal workers for waste management.

Q30. What are some other examples of communities?

Answer: Examples include a farming community, a religious community, a scientific community, a school community, a sports community and a drama club.

Q31. What people outside your family support you through their work?

Answer: Teachers, farmers, doctors, shopkeepers, drivers, sanitation workers, police officers and many other people help us in our daily lives.

J. Questions and Activities at the End of the Chapter (Page 148)

Q32. What are some rules you follow in your family and neighbourhood? Why are they important?

Answer: In my family, I follow rules such as respecting elders, helping with household work, keeping the home clean and speaking politely. In my neighbourhood, I follow rules such as keeping public places clean, avoiding loud noise and respecting other people. These rules maintain peace, safety and cooperation.

Q33. Do you think some rules are unfair to a few people in the family or community? Why?

Answer: Yes, some rules can be unfair if they discriminate against people or give more responsibilities to certain members without a good reason. For example, expecting only girls to do household work is unfair. Rules should treat everyone fairly and respect their rights.

Q34. Describe situations where community support makes a difference.

Answer: Community support makes a difference when people help families affected by floods, collect money for medical treatment, distribute food during emergencies, clean public places or teach children who cannot afford tuition. Such actions reduce difficulties and strengthen relationships.

Part 3: Important Questions and Answers from Every Topic

Topic 1: Family

Q1. What is a family?

Answer: A family is a group of people related to one another who provide love, care, support and a sense of belonging.

Q2. Why is the family called the fundamental unit of society?

Answer: The family is called the fundamental unit of society because it is one of the basic groups in which people learn to live together, share responsibilities and follow social values.

Q3. What are the two types of families discussed in the chapter?

Answer: The two types are joint families and nuclear families.

Q4. What is a joint family?

Answer: A joint family includes several generations or relatives living together, such as grandparents, parents, uncles, aunts and children.

Q5. What is a nuclear family?

Answer: A nuclear family usually consists of a couple and their children. Sometimes, it consists of one parent and children.

Q6. Why are family relationships important?

Answer: Family relationships provide love, care, security and emotional support. They also help people learn cooperation and responsibility.

Topic 2: Family Relationships and Languages

Q7. What is cooperation?

Answer: Cooperation means working together to achieve a common goal or complete a task.

Q8. Why do Indian languages have many terms for relatives?

Answer: Indian languages often have specific words for different family relationships. These words help describe relatives and their relationships more precisely.

Q9. What do the Hindi words bua, tau and mausi mean?

Answer:

- Bua: Father's sister.
- Tau: Father's elder brother.
- Mausi: Mother's sister.

Q10. Why does the chapter say that cousins are often called brothers and sisters in Indian languages?

Answer: In many Indian languages, cousins are addressed as brothers and sisters. This reflects the close bonds and sense of belonging among children in an extended family.

Topic 3: Roles, Responsibilities and Values

Q11. What responsibilities do parents have towards their children?

Answer: Parents are responsible for raising their children, caring for their needs and helping them become happy and responsible members of society.

Q12. How can children help their families?

Answer: Children can help by keeping their rooms clean, arranging their books, helping with suitable household tasks and supporting other family members.

Q13. What values do children learn in a family?

Answer: Children learn love, respect, cooperation, kindness, responsibility, sharing and care for others.

Q14. What is dharma in this chapter?

Answer: Dharma means following one's duty and doing what one should do responsibly.

Q15. What do ahimsa, dāna, sevā and tyāga mean?

Answer:

Term	Meaning in simple English
Ahimsa	Non-violence; not harming others
Dāna	Giving or charity
Sevā	Service to others
Tyāga	Sacrifice; giving up something for others

Q16. Why is the family described as a school?

Answer: The family is described as a school because children learn important values, duties, traditions and ways of behaving through everyday family life.

Topic 4: Community

Q17. What is a community?

Answer: A community is a group of people connected by their place of living, religion, region, work, interests or shared activities.

Q18. How do communities support their members?

Answer: Communities support their members by helping during difficult times, celebrating events together, solving common problems and sharing resources.

Q19. How do village communities cooperate in farming?

Answer: People may help one another in preparing land, sowing seeds and harvesting crops. This reduces difficulties and strengthens cooperation.

Q20. Why do communities make rules about shared resources?

Answer: Communities make rules to use resources such as water, grazing lands and forest produce responsibly and to ensure that people have fair access to them.

Q21. What happens when community members do not perform their responsibilities?

Answer: The community may not function smoothly. Common tasks may remain incomplete, resources may be misused and disagreements may arise.

Topic 5: Community Service and Social Responsibility

Q22. What does the Halma tradition teach us?

Answer: Halma teaches us to come together to help people in need and to work for the welfare of the community and the environment.

Q23. How can people help their community without expecting money?

Answer: They can volunteer to teach children, help during disasters, clean public spaces, plant trees, distribute food and assist people who need support.

Q24. Why is education important for every child?

Answer: Education helps children gain knowledge, develop skills and build a better future. Every child should have an equal opportunity to learn.

Q25. What is social responsibility?

Answer: Social responsibility means doing our part to help others, follow fair rules and improve the well-being of society.

Topic 6: Modern Communities and Interdependence

Q26. What is an urban community?

Answer: An urban community is a group of people living in a town or city who may work together on common issues and activities.

Q27. What rules may a Residents' Welfare Association make?

Answer: It may make rules about waste management, cleanliness of common areas, taking care of pets and the use of shared spaces.

Q28. What does interdependence mean?

Answer: Interdependence means depending on one another for help, goods, services or support.

Q29. Give an example of interdependence.

Answer: A family depends on farmers for food, shopkeepers for goods, teachers for education and sanitation workers for cleanliness. These people and groups depend on others too.

Q30. Can one person belong to more than one community?

Answer: Yes. A student can belong to a family, a school community, a class, a sports club and a science club at the same time.

Part 4: True or False

1. The family is a basic unit of society. — True
2. A nuclear family always includes several generations living together. — False
3. Cooperation means working together. — True
4. Children have no responsibilities towards their families. — False
5. Sevā means service to others. — True
6. Shalini's parents helped their relatives who were facing financial difficulties. — True
7. Tenzing's father never helped with household chores. — False
8. Community members may cooperate in farming activities. — True
9. The Halma tradition encourages people to help one another and serve the environment. — True
10. Only people living in villages can form communities. — False
11. A Residents' Welfare Association may help manage common neighbourhood issues. — True
12. Communities never depend on one another. — False

Part 5: Multiple-Choice Questions (MCQs)

Chapter 9 Practice Test

0/14 answered

1. What is the basic unit of society discussed in the chapter?

A. Market
B. Family
C. Office
D. Club

2. Which family usually includes several generations living together?

A. Nuclear family
B. Joint family
C. Single-person household
D. School family

3. What does cooperation mean?

A. Working alone always

B. Working together
C. Avoiding duties
D. Making arguments

4. What does dharma mean in the chapter?

A. Doing one's duty
B. Buying goods
C. Playing games
D. Travelling

5. Which word means service to others?

A. Tyāga
B. Dāna
C. Sevā
D. Ahimsa

6. Why did Shalini's parents buy clothes for her relatives?

A. They wanted to show off
B. The relatives were facing financial difficulties
C. The relatives had asked for expensive gifts
D. They were moving house

7. What did Tenzing's father do when his wife became busy with work?

A. Stopped helping at home
B. Helped with household chores
C. Left the family
D. Stopped working

8. What is a community?

A. Only a group of relatives
B. A group of connected people
C. Only people in a school
D. A group with no common connection

9. Which community tradition is described in connection with the Bhils?

A. Halma
B. Pongal
C. Chintz
D. Panchatantra

10. What did the Bhils do to address water shortages near Jhabua?

A. Built shopping malls
B. Planted trees and created water-harvesting structures
C. Moved all villages
D. Stopped farming

11. What did Kamal Parmar provide to underprivileged children?

A. Tuition and free dinner
B. New houses for everyone
C. Paid holidays
D. Sports equipment only

12. What does interdependence mean?

A. Never needing anyone
B. Depending on one another
C. Living without rules
D. Avoiding cooperation

13. Which organisation may make rules for cleanliness in a residential area?

A. Residents' Welfare Association
B. A single household only
C. A textbook publisher
D. A farming tool shop

14. Can a student belong to more than one community?

A. No, never
B. Yes, such as a class and a sports club
C. Only after leaving school
D. Only if living in a village
Check Answers

Part 6: Quick Revision Notes

- Family: The basic unit of society.
- Joint family: A family in which several generations or relatives live together.
- Nuclear family: A couple with their children, or sometimes one parent with children.
- Cooperation: Working together.
- Dharma: Doing one's duty.
- Ahimsa: Non-violence.
- Dāna: Giving or charity.
- Sevā: Service.

- Tyāga: Sacrifice.
- Community: A group of connected people.
- Halma: A Bhil tradition of coming together to help others and serve the environment.
- Residents' Welfare Association: A group that works on shared concerns in a residential area.
- Interdependence: Depending on one another.

Main message of the chapter: Families teach us love, care, values and responsibility. Communities extend these relationships beyond the family. When people cooperate, share resources and help one another, society becomes stronger.

Based on the uploaded textbook, Family and Community, Chapter 9, pages 137–148. The answers to personal activities are sample responses and can be changed to match students' own experiences.

ssc6-cbse-ch09-family-and-community.pdf